Chinese Reds Admit Holding 30 Americans

Communists Give Data On Whereabouts Of Several U.S. Citizens

GENEVA (P)—The Chinese Communists confirmed today they are holding 30 American civilians in prison, but said one civilian and a number of military personnel listed by the United States as detained were either dead or missing.

This information was passed to the United States in the fourth meeting between representatives of the U. S. and Chinese Communist delegations on the exchange of detained persons.

The United States agreed to permit 15 detained Chinese nationals to leave the United States and return to the China mainland.

The Chinese, on their side, supplied preliminary information on the list of approximately 83 American civilian and military personnel believed by the United States either to be in prison or to be prevented from leaving China.

The Chinese said W. L. Winter, missionary, had been arrested for espionage, but died in prison Feb. 27, 1951. Winter was a mission worker in a leprosarium in Kiangsi Province.

IN THE MILITARY category the Chinese said three fliers—P. E. Voorthuis, H. D. Weese and A. D. Hart Jr.—had died of injuries received when they parachuted from their plane over Antung, North China.

The United States had listed 11 crew members of a U. S. naval patrol plane and a rescue plane as probable detainees, but the Chinese representative said the two planes crashed into the sea and the men were missing. The names of these 11 were not disclosed.

The Chinese said one of the 32 listed by the United States and being in prison was never detained and is now living in Hunan Province. He is the Rev. John B. Maye of Scranton, Pa., a Roman Catholic missionary.

The Chinese did not say when any of those detained would be released, if at all.

Truman Rests OK After He Has Operation

KANSAS CITY (P)—Former President Harry S. Truman, reported in satisfactory condition today after an emergency operation, probably will be able to leave the hospital in 10 days.

His appendix and gall bladder were removed earlier yesterday. The 70-year-old ex-President was able to sit up in a chair for a brief period yesterday. He told his doctor he considered himself just another patient at Research Hospital and didn't want any fuss made in his behalf.

Dr. Wallace Graham, his physician who also was his personal doctor during White House days, said Truman should be able to leave the hospital in 10 days if he goes well.

"Mr. Truman is a perfect patient," he said. "He expects you to know certain things and he expects you to be sure of them. Then he doesn't fuss or worry. He decides to get things fixed."

The physician said he was "very ill" when he entered the hospital but had stood the operation extremely well.

He first became ill Friday night while attending the play "Call Me Madam" at the outdoor Starlight Theater.

Martial Law Blankets Guatemala; U. N. Council Calls For Cease-Fire

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (P)—President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman of Guatemala proclaimed martial law throughout his invaded country today as his Communist-backed government mobilized for a showdown battle with anti-Red rebels.

Insurgent leaders claimed their forces were pushing ahead in a three-pronged drive aimed at key rail and road communications in the southern part of the country.

The martial law decree was announced late last night after a government appeal for all private cars to be turned in for use in moving troops. Reports from Guatemala said the decisive phase of the battle for that neighboring Central American nation may come within 48 hours.

Guatemalan army officers said no field action had yet been fought. They added, however, that a battle could not be delayed much longer.

The U. S. Embassy in Guatemala City announced it is making plans to evacuate wives and children of U. S. citizens.

With a wave of anti-U. S. feeling sweeping the city, the embassy reportedly feared violence might break out against North Americans. There are about 1,200 U. S. citizens in Guatemala.

Part of the rebel force was reported striking toward the Pan-American Highway, near the Salvadoran border. This is a two-headed drive from Nueva Ocotepeque, Honduras, toward Jutiapa.

Another invading column reportedly was moving in from Maculizoz, Honduras, about 20 miles west of Puerto Barrios, Guatemala's chief Caribbean port.

The third was reported toward Zacapa, midway on the vital rail line between Puerto Barrios and Guatemala City.

The U. N. Security Council called unanimously last night for a cease-fire in Guatemala and for all U. N. members to withhold aid from the fighting forces there.

The action came after the Soviet Union cast its 60th veto in council history on behalf of Guatemala's leftist government. The veto defeated a motion to refer the Guatemalan complaint of aggression to the Western Hemisphere's regional organization, the Organization of American States (OAS).

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., council president for June, said the Soviet veto showed obviously the Russians have "designs" on the Americas. He warned angrily:

"I say to the Soviet delegate: Stay out of the Western Hemisphere. Don't try to start your plans and conspiracies here."

Despite the Russian vote, Guatemala has already asked the five-member inter-American Peace Committee of the OAS to help stop the invasion against President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's government. The committee scheduled a meeting in Washington late today.

The cease-fire call was voted after Guatemalan Delegate Eduardo Astillo-Arriola charged neighboring Honduras and Nicaragua, backed by the United States and the United Fruit Co., had connived in an aggression against Guatemala's territory by mercenary expeditionary forces.

Lodge hotly defended his government and denied the charges. He said information available to the United States "strongly suggests that the situation does not involve aggression, but a revolt of Guatemalans against Guatemalans."

Change Hinted In Farm Bill

GOP Leaders Hoping To Win Ike's Backing

WASHINGTON (P)—Senate and House Republican leaders predicted today Congress will pass a farm bill which President Eisenhower can sign.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) and Rep. Halleck (R-Ind.) gave no details as they emerged from a weekly conference with the President, but Halleck said he hopes the bill will at least "make a start" on the gradual, flexible system of farm price supports asked by the administration.

The House Agriculture Committee has voted to extend for another year the present high-level rigid price supports on basic crops, a program Secretary of Agriculture Benson has said he would ask the President to veto. Eisenhower has not said what course he would take if rigid supports were approved.

Halleck emphasized the President's desire for "gradualism" in shifting the price support program to lower, flexible levels. He said the major question now is whether that aim should be achieved by administrative discretion or by congressional action.

BUT HE ADMITTED he was "a little confused" by the House Agriculture Committee's action in voting to make the higher levels mandatory.

In an earlier interview, Knowland said he is confident the Senate will beat down Democratic efforts to revise the administration's reciprocal trade and tax revision bills, but conceded "I may be unduly optimistic."

The Senate plans to open debate tomorrow on a one-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act, which gives the President authority to reduce tariffs in exchange for similar concessions from other nations.

Envoy Says West Pledging To Still Try For Indo Peace

WASHINGTON (P)—Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith flew home from the Geneva conference on Southeast Asia today with a pledge that the West will continue "a sincere, patient effort" to negotiate an Indochina peace settlement.

Smith blamed "inflexible opposition by the Communists" for failure of the Geneva talks to arrive at a settlement for Korea.

His return from the talks with the Reds precedes only a few days a visit here by Britain's Prime Minister Churchill during which President Eisenhower probably will urge British cooperation in setting up an international conference on anti-Communist defenses in the vital Southeast Asia sector.

Hopes the British were ready to go along on such a plan had begun to wane over the weekend, however, partly as a result of French political developments and partly because of apparent concessions made by the Reds to keep the Geneva talks going.

CHURCHILL and Foreign Secretary Eden are due in Friday. Their talks with Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles will be informal and, aides indicate, as secret as possible.

Rev. Weaver May Issue Statement

The Rev. Robert B. Weaver, one of the central figures in a dispute between a faction at the Methodist Church at Defiance and Methodist Bishop Hazen G. Werner, said here Monday he may soon be able to issue a statement on the controversy.

The dispute arose recently when the Rev. Mr. Weaver was transferred from Circleville to his new duties at St. Paul's Methodist Church in Defiance. He preached his first sermon at the Defiance church Sunday, selecting Christian love as his theme.

A special reporter was said to have been present to take notes on the new pastor's first services.

Prior to his arrival in Defiance, just a few minutes before the time set for Sunday services, the former Circleville pastor knew there was no room for him in the Defiance parsonage. He also knew as result of the controversy, there is probably no salary from the church's official board to pay him.

THE REV. MR. Weaver preached his first sermon to a packed church and then took up residence in a Defiance hotel.

The dispute started when Joseph Richards, former pastor at Defiance, turned in his credentials as a minister.

Justice Shoved In Taking Course

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (P)—Asked whether he wished to file charges against the man who knifed him, the victim replied, "Let justice take its course."

An hour later a second man was at the hospital for treatment of a head laceration. Asked whether he knew his attacker, he promptly named the first man.

"Justice has taken its course," justified the policeman who added that no charges were filed.

Washington (P)—The nation's biggest industry — agriculture — was standing by today to hear the reading of an order which would level against it the strictest federal curbs in history.

The Department of Agriculture allowed a vast amount of information to "leak" to the press over the weekend concerning a statement scheduled to be made today by Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

Benson's statement was to be topped by an order imposing strict new regulations against farmer production of major crops during 1955.

This morning, there was silence at the Agriculture Department. Benson was still scheduled for a late afternoon press conference. His order may be announced then. However, the silence gave the vague implication that there may have been a last-minute change in plans.

The detailed weekend reports said that Benson would announce what the government proposes to do to keep the present record-breaking surplus of farm commodities from becoming larger. The government itself has about $6½ billion invested in these stocks.

SPECIFICALLY, the secretary was expected to announce that growers will be asked to continue rigid marketing quotas on wheat next year and take another 12 per cent planting reduction on top of this year's 20 per cent.

Also, Benson was expected to announce what steps the department will take to keep "surplus" wheat, cotton, and corn land from being diverted into the production of oversupplies of other crops, such as soybeans, flaxseed, barley, rye, oats, dry beans, potatoes.

It appeared that farmers would be asked to plant some 40 million fewer acres to wheat, cotton and corn next year than they planted in 1953. By comparison, farmers are planting about 350 million acres to all crops this year.

To prevent diversion of this land to other crops not needed, Benson may set up new conditions which farmers would have to meet to become eligible for all-important government price supports.

Those conditions may include requirements that growers (1) com-

LANSING, Kan. (P)—Shielding themselves with six terrified prison visitors, six desperate convicts tried to force their way out of the Kansas State Prison yesterday.

A veteran guard was killed, and one of the hostages and two of the convicts were wounded in bursts of gunfire before the group surrendered in the administration building.

The convicts were armed with three crude 22 pistols and six knives, all made in prison.

The six men rushed into the visitors' room where about 25 visitors were talking with prisoners. They seized the hostages, including two children, and rushed to the administration building.

Fred Kenaga, 58, an unarmed guard supervisor with 25 years of service, encountered the group at the administration building door and was shot to death.

Inside a vestibule the convicts were stopped by two gates. Throwing the hostages, they yelled for gatekeeper Andy Hollinshead to open the gates. He refused and they fired at him.

"I knew we were going to have a showdown, and that we were going to have it right there," the warden said. "I was interested in getting the hostages out, but you just can't run a prison by opening the gates because of pressure from inside."

Warden Charles Edmondson rushed into the corridor and drew fire from the convicts as the hostages screamed hysterically.

The warden got a rifle and stepped into the corridor again as armed guards approached the convicts from the yard in the rear.

Chicago Heir's Death Probed

Montgomery Ward Kin Antagonized Trouble

CHICAGO (AP)—Authorities today intensified their investigation of the mysterious death of the 20-year-old heir to $1 million after being told the young man revised his will recently to make his fiancée principal beneficiary and had expressed doubt he would live to gain his inheritance.

Montgomery Ward Thorne was found dead in his studio apartment Saturday. Coroner Walter E. McCarron said there were four needle marks on his arms but no evidence he was a user of narcotics.

He said he also has sent investigators to Birmingham, Mich., to interview the 25-year-old daughter of a prominent Birmingham family. He said the girl, an art student, occupied an apartment adjoining Thorne's until Friday. McCarron did not name her.

Jay Stough, who said he had been young Thorne's lawyer for some time, told police that Thorne less than 10 days ago changed his will to make Miss Maureen Ragen, 18, chief beneficiary and executor.

STOUGH SAID Thorne, grandson of a former president of Montgomery Ward Co., "was afraid he would never live to collect his inheritance. He asked me to assure that there would be a very thorough investigation . . . if he died."

Miss Ragen, to whom young Thorne's new will left half of his estate, is the granddaughter of the late James M. Ragen, racing news service publisher who was shot down by gang assassins in 1946.

The new will directs the remainder of young Thorne's estate be divided among relatives, including one eighth to his mother, Mrs. Marion Thorne.

Mrs. Thorne, fourth wife of Gordon C. Thorne, whom he married in 1929 after she, a nurse, cared for him through an illness, was sole beneficiary under the son's original will, Stough said. That will, the lawyer said, was drawn soon after the boy's 18th birthday.

ply with acreage planting allotments for all crops assigned them and (2) keep their total acreage of cash crops, including those covered by allotments and those not covered, within a specified percentage of their total acreage.

These would be the strictest conditions ever laid down under federal farm programs. Under this year's program, a farmer could overplant an allotment on one crop and still remain eligible for price support on another. Furthermore, there was no overall ceiling on his crop acreage.

DETAILS OF the 1955 wheat program are announced early because farmers start planting this crop in the fall. The national planting allotment is expected to be set at 55 million acres, the minimum permitted by law, compared with 63 million this year.

Benson also was expected to announce the date on which the department will hold a national referendum on marketing quotas on the 1955 wheat crop. Law requires that the referendum be held by July 24. Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting is required to make the quotas effective. A year ago growers voted 87 per cent in favor of controls for this year's crop.

Quotas and acreage allotments are in effect on this year's crops of cotton, peanuts and major types of tobacco, and allotments are in effect for corn. Those who over-sell their quotas are subject to stiff penalty taxes, while those who overplant allotments are denied price support aid.

Driver Finds Man Pinned Under Car

Pinned underneath his car about 6:45 a. m. Sunday Lloyd G. Wheeler was discovered by a passing motorist who summoned two deputies from Sheriff Charles Radcliff's department. The 30-year-old Huntington, W. Va., man was taken to Berger Hospital with a small laceration of his scalp and leg bruises.

The accident occurred on Route 104, 500 feet south of the D a r b y Creek Bridge. Wheeler told the deputies he evidently fell asleep at the wheel. According to the report, the car hit the right berm and swerved left across the road.

Wheeler was released from the hospital after treatment.

GRAIN FUTURES

CHICAGO — Grains scored small advances on the Board of Trade today, only soybeans being unable to join the upward march.

In early dealings wheat sank on hedging pressure. This was relatively light, however, and the bread cereal soon recovered. Trading proceeded a slow pace.

Wheat at noon was 1/4-1/2 higher, July $1.90 1/4, corn unchanged to 1/2 higher, July $1.57, oats 1/4-1/2 higher, July 73 1/2, rye unchanged to 1/2 higher, July 99 1/2, soybeans 1/2 to 1/4 cents lower, July $3.80 1/4 and lard 10 to 30 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $15.70, 5

Benson Slated To Order Cut In Production

ply with acreage planting allotments for all crops assigned them and (2) keep their total acreage of cash crops, including those covered by allotments and those not covered, within a specified percentage of their total acreage.

These would be the strictest conditions ever laid down under federal farm programs. Under this year's program, a farmer could overplant an allotment on one crop and still remain eligible for price support on another. Furthermore, there was no overall ceiling on his crop acreage.

DETAILS OF the 1955 wheat program are announced early because farmers start planting this crop in the fall. The national planting allotment is expected to be set at 55 million acres, the minimum permitted by law, compared with 63 million this year.

Benson also was expected to announce the date on which the department will hold a national referendum on marketing quotas on the 1955 wheat crop. Law requires that the referendum be held by July 24. Approval by at least two-thirds of those voting is required to make the quotas effective. A year ago growers voted 87 per cent in favor of controls for this year's crop.

Quotas and acreage allotments are in effect on this year's crops of cotton, peanuts and major types of tobacco, and allotments are in effect for corn. Those who over-sell their quotas are subject to stiff penalty taxes, while those who overplant allotments are denied price support aid.

Driver Finds Man Pinned Under Car

Pinned underneath his car about 6:45 a. m. Sunday Lloyd G. Wheeler was discovered by a passing motorist who summoned two deputies from Sheriff Charles Radcliff's department. The 30-year-old Huntington, W. Va., man was taken to Berger Hospital with a small laceration of his scalp and leg bruises.

The accident occurred on Route 104, 500 feet south of the Darby Creek Bridge. Wheeler told the deputies he evidently fell asleep at the wheel. According to the report, the car hit the right beam and swerved left across the road.

Wheeler was released from the hospital after treatment.

GRAIN FUTURES
CHICAGO (AP) — Grains scored small advances on the Board of Trade today, only soybeans being unable to join the upward march.

In early dealings wheat sank on hedging pressure. This was relatively light, however, and the bread cereal soon recovered. Trading proceeded a slow pace.

Wheat at noon was 1/2% higher, July $1.90 1/2, corn unchanged to 1/2 higher, July $1.57, oats 1/4% higher, July 73 1/2, rye unchanged to 1/2 higher, July 99 3/4, soybeans 1/4 to 4 cents lower, July $3.80 1/2 and 10 to 30 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $15.70. 5

WASHINGTON (AP) — While still fresh in office last year President Eisenhower set up so many commissions to study and find answers for the problems facing him that critics are jokingly calling it "government by commission."

He is now learning that when a commission gets all through recommending, he still has to deal with Congress, and Congress can do as it pleases.

Last January a 17-man commission—headed by Clarence Randall, steel manufacturer—wound up a six-month study by making a list of recommendations on foreign economic policy.

Eisenhower had taken office at a time when it was clear this country was going to have to cut down on the amount of the aid it was shoveling out to other countries. Yet, once the aid was shut off, they'd have to fill the gap somehow to survive, and one of the ways was in more trade with this country. The Randall commission was set up to look for answers.

The perfect commission would be one in which all the members approached their problem with an open mind and wound up with an answer so obvious that all the members were in complete agreement.

The Randall commission didn't come close to the ideal group. Individual members had strong, perhaps lifelong, opinions on foreign trade which apparently didn't change.

Among other things, the commission majority recommended that the reciprocal trade program be extended for another three years and some tariffs on foreign imports be lowered sharply over that period.

Under the Reciprocal Trade Act the President can lower tariffs on certain foreign goods coming here if a foreign country lowers its tariffs on certain American goods sent there.

Two of Eisenhower's own Republicans on the Randall commission, key men in Congress, attacked the commission's report on specific details and termed the entire report "vague, indefinite and unsatisfactory."

These two were Rep. Daniel A. Reed of New York and Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania. Reed is chairman and Simpson is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which gets first crack at all tariff legislation.

Another Republican commission member—sen. Eugene Milliken of Colorado, who as chairman of the Finance Committee is Reed's counterpart in the Senate—put in a long letter that was far more dissent than agreement.

Reed and Simpson took the position that tariff lowering, as recommended by the Randall commission, would hurt American business because of the competition of imported foreign goods and cause unemployment.

Eisenhower, following the majority recommendation, asked Congress to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act three years and let him cut tariffs 5 per cent in each of those three years.

But this request landed in the lap of the Reed-Simpson committee. Eisenhower backed up. He agreed to accept a one-year extension, without added authority to cut tariffs. He said he'd work for more improvements in foreign trade next year. The House passed the one-year extension. The Senate is expected to do so this week.

There is nothing unusual about this year-to-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act. The practice has been followed regularly in recent years in the face of much strong opposition in Congress against cutting tariffs.

In 1930, although more than 1,000 economists protested, President Hoover signed into law the Hawley-Smoot bill passed by a Republican-controlled Congress. It set up the highest tariffs in history against foreign imports.

Within two years 25 countries retaliated against this country with high tariffs of their own on American goods. By that time the depression, which had started in 1929, was going full speed.

When President Roosevelt came in, Secretary of State Cordell Hull persuaded the Democratic-controlled Congress, in 1934, to pass the Reciprocal Trade Act in the hope of reviving world commerce. It's been on the books since.

American GI's Seem To Prefer Duty In Germany Over France

By HAL BOYLE

PARIS (AP)—What is the difference between France and Western Germany today?

Nine years after the end of the last war the average American soldier abroad prefers to be stationed in Germany, the old enemy, rather than in France, the old ally.

This preference annoys some French, affords the Germans a hearty Teutonic chuckle.

The average American tourist, like the U. S. soldier, also quite often is more impressed by Western Germany rather than any other country in Europe.

Why? Both soldier and tourist, if pressed for a one-sentence answer, probably would reply: "It's more like home."

The phrase "more like home" covers more than the superiority of German over French plumbing.

The impression Western Germany makes on a U. S. visitor can't be dismissed or explained merely as a psychopathic admiration of better plumbing.

There is a great difference in spirit between the two lands. The visiting American today finds few scars of war left on the face of France, but detects many scars in the Frenchman's heart.

The war scars still stand on every hand in Germany, although rebuilding is going on everywhere, but the German keeps whatever postwar bitterness he has pretty much to himself.

The French give an impression of being tired and resentful and envious, like an old beauty who can't quite forgive time for taking away the empire of her charms. The Germans are like a club fighter who, knocked kicking, gets up off the floor and asks, "Where do we go from here?" They want to hit the comeback trail as a people.

The visitor gets a feeling the Germans know where they are going, the French wistfully and fearfully are trying to hold on to something they are losing.

The most striking difference between Germany and France is the difference between this atmosphere of self-confident purpose and this miasma of painful self-doubt. The French still yearn for glory, and demand it on the basis of past performance, and the Germans are back on their feet reaching for power.

In a recent talk to a group of former war correspondents, Dr. Ludwig Erhard, German economics minister, spoke of his hope for a unified Europe that would submerge old rivalries and add:

"It has often been said that Germany is the most American country in Europe. There may be something in that and, if there is, it lies in a mutual dynamic expansive spirit that can lead us to better times."

That, I suppose, sums up the real reason visiting Americans feel more at home in Germany. They feel the pulsing dynamic growth about them; in France they sense an uneasy static condition of the mind and heart.

Americans still like to go ahead; they hate standing still. In Germany they hear the sound of busy hammers; in France they too often are only aware of an anvil chorus of complaint.

Nine years after the war this is the difference an ordinary American visitor feels between Germany and France. Unfortunately it is a difference that does not make him feel too happy about the future of politics in a world divided.

Tax Data Shows District Stability

Stability of trade activity here was reflected again in the latest report by State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy on sales tax receipts.

While receipts statewide for the week ending June 5 dropped from their all-time peak reached the week before, only a minor reduction was noted for Pickaway County.

The tax receipts are widely regarded as an accurate reflection of business activity in the various sections of the state.

Statewide receipts for the week ending June 5 totaled $2,888,702 as compared to $3,529,392 for the same week of last year. However, Pickaway County's receipts for the week ending June 5 were $6,464.64, only about $400 under the corresponding week of last year.

Statewide receipts zoomed to a record for the 1954 calendar year—more than $4 million—for the week ending May 29.

WASHINGTON (AP) — While still fresh in office last year President Eisenhower set up so many commissions to study and find answers for the problems facing him that critics are jokingly calling it "government by commission."

He is now learning that when a commission gets all through recommending, he still has to deal with Congress, and Congress can do as it pleases.

Last January a 17-man commission—headed by Clarence Randall, steel manufacturer—wound up a six-month study by making a list of recommendations on foreign economic policy.

Eisenhower had taken office at a time when it was clear this country was going to have to cut down on the amount of the aid it was shoveling out to other countries. Yet, once the aid was shut off, they'd have to fill the gap somehow to survive, and one of the ways was in more trade with this country. The Randall commission was set up to look for answers.

The perfect commission would be one in which all the members approached their problem with an open mind and wound up with an answer so obvious that all the members were in complete agreement.

The Randall commission didn't come close to the ideal group. Individual members had strong, perhaps lifelong, opinions on foreign trade which apparently didn't change.

Among other things, the commission majority recommended that the reciprocal trade program be extended for another three years and some tariffs on foreign imports be lowered sharply over that period.

Under the Reciprocal Trade Act the President can lower tariffs on certain foreign goods coming here if a foreign country lowers its tariffs on certain American goods sent there.

Two of Eisenhower's own Republicans on the Randall commission, key men in Congress, attacked the commission's report on specific details and termed the entire report "vague, indefinite and unsatisfactory."

These two were Rep. Daniel A. Reed of New York and Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania. Reed is chairman and Simpson is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which gets first crack at all tariff legislation.

Another Republican commission member—sen. Eugene Milliken of Colorado, who as chairman of the Finance Committee is Reed's counterpart in the Senate—put in a long letter that was far more dissent than agreement.

Reed and Simpson took the position that tariff lowering, as recommended by the Randall commission, would hurt American business because of the competition of imported foreign goods and cause unemployment.

Eisenhower, following the majority recommendation, asked Congress to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act three years and let him cut tariffs 5 per cent in each of those three years.

But this request landed in the lap of the Reed-Simpson committee. Eisenhower backed up. He agreed to accept a one-year extension, without added authority to cut tariffs. He said he'd work for more improvements in foreign trade next year. The House passed the one-year extension. The Senate is expected to do so this week.

There is nothing unusual about this year-to-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Act. The practice has been followed regularly in recent years in the face of much strong opposition in Congress against cutting tariffs.

In 1930, although more than 1,000 economists protested, President Hoover signed into law the Hawley-Smoot bill passed by a Republican-controlled Congress. It set up the highest tariffs in history against foreign imports.

FONT OF LEARNING

AMERICA HAS displaced traditional European fountains of knowledge as the world's educational center. A survey shows that of 107,000 young men and women attending universities outside their native lands, the United States this year had 35,000 or about a third. France was in second place with 14,000, and Britain third with 8,000.

Presence of foreign students at American colleges and universities exerts a wholesome influence in two directions—on native students and faculty who acquire valuable information and insight about the countries represented, and on the visitors who may become goodwill emissaries on their return home. In this connection it is significant that four of the five largest nationality groups in America's foreign student population are Asian Indians, Filipinos, Japanese and Chinese.

It is heartening that with the focus of the world's problems shifting to the Far East, that area has become the most fertile producer of students learning American techniques and ways. The largest numbers of visiting students are engaged in the study of engineering and humanities with the social sciences running a close third.

But an important bit of instruction they don't get in books is exposure to the innate decency and fairness of their American colleagues. It is on the integrity of the American character that may well yet hinge the fate of the world.

"COME TO Yugoslavia and enjoy unusual hunting of rare game in exciting country," exhorts the Yugoslav Review, official information journal circulated by the Tito government in the United States. Thick forests and rocky mountain wilds, it is revealed, abound in deer, antelope and all manner of smaller game.

Tito is getting in some good hunting himself, but not on the same preserve. The anti-Soviet Communist is making a good thing of the Balkan agreement linking Turkey and Greece in a defense arrangement with Yugoslavia. As the former two are NATO members, the treaty served to drag Tito into the western alliance by the skin of his teeth. Now he wants to sink his molars in.

Tito took occasion on a recent trip to Ankara to suggest that he wouldn't mind getting in on the European Defense Community. The European Council, which would be the political arm of the EDC, has shown an inclination toward internationalizing trouble spots on the Continent. Such is the solution it has suggested or the Saar, and one which Tito would like to see applied to Trieste.

The U. S. and Britain, signatories of the Italian peace treaty, are on record for the outright ceding of the port facilities to Italy, but Tito sees a way around this. And all the time that he's been proclaiming this new rash of western affection he has been

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Some time ago my good friend, Carl W. Ackerman, Dean of the Faculty of Journalism of Columbia University, said:

"Today the vast majority of teachers in all fields of instruction have learned that promotion and security depend upon conformity to the prevailing community or national concept of devotion to the public welfare."

Why should teachers feel that they are forced to conform? And what are they being forced to conform to? Is any man required to conform to a particular religious group to teach in our public schools? Is anyone required to belong to a political party? Must he accept a particular philosophy of life?

As one analyzes the problem, the only position that involves a teacher or anyone else in difficulties at the present time is membership in the Communist Party or support for the Communist Party or in favor of espionage or defense of those who engage in espionage.

What has that to do with conformity? This country is in peril of war with the Soviet Universal State and is struggling against this particular power not only in the United States but in every country in which we have an interest. Therefore there is an inevitable deep concern over the extent of the infiltration of subversion and espionage in this country. Any other course would be suicidal.

On the other hand, no Communist publication has been suppressed. The "Daily Worker" is published every day. A number of monthly magazines are issued by this party. Certainly these publications do not conform to a pattern. Books are published on all sides of these questions.

Dean Ackerman also made this point: "Before or after graduation a student must look for a job. He knows all employers now 'investigate' before hiring. He knows that an 'A' record is no longer a sufficient recommendation, neither is a degree. Employers ask searching questions, not about ability, resourcefulness, reliability, industry and integrity, as in the past, but also about the political and social attitudes of the applicant."

I have lived nearly as long as Dean Ackerman and I cannot recall when his description was not true. Men used to be hired on what was called "character." Perhaps that is a neolithic term, but by it was meant "a good name," "a good reputation." Receiving the mark of "A" does not even imply that a person has a good character. It may mean that he has a photographic memory.

Naturally, one investigates his staff. I recall when it used to be customary to ask for a letter from a priest or pastor or rabbi. I know employers, particularly of secretarial help, who want something like that. My office is at home and I would not employ anyone, even with a Phi Beta Kappa key, whom I would not care to introduce to my wife and children.

An "A" would not prove that I could do that. An employer who has a defense contract does not want to employ anyone who would get him or his firm into trouble. Quite apart from patriotism, it is a nuisance to have to go through investigations and explanations. It is more practical to have a check made in advance.

DIET AND HEALTH

The Premature Infant Requires Extreme Care

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

TECHNICALLY, a premature infant is one that is born before it has fully developed in the mother's womb. However, authorities consider any baby weighing less than five and one-half pounds as premature.

At present, premature births constitute about seven to ten per cent of all live births. However, they account for over 70 per cent of all infant deaths following birth.

Some Causes

Poor nutrition in the mother is one of the most important contributing factors causing prematurity. Certain obstetrical complications may also be at fault. It is important for a mother carrying an infant to keep as healthy as possible, and to have the best kind of prenatal care.

The breathing center and lungs of a premature infant are more sensitive to the effects of drugs than those of full term infants. Therefore, when a premature baby is delivered, the physician delivering it uses great care in giving narcotics to the mother.

Extreme Care Needed

At the time of the delivery, small premature infants must be handled with the greatest of care, and a heated incubator with oxygen should be on hand in every delivery room. A high temperature and humidity are recommended for the first few days of life. Oxygen is usually administered at least during the first 24 hours, and in many cases must be continued for a longer period of time.

Small Feedings Given

The intestinal tract of premature babies is poorly developed and they are therefore prone to vomiting and diarrhea. For this reason they are given only small feedings during the first few days of life. They usually survive better on a diet high in proteins, phosphorus and calcium and low in fat. Feeding of these infants with breast milk is advisable.

Small premature infants may have to be fed through medicine droppers or by special tubes inserted in their stomach. They are also susceptible to bleeding, therefore Vitamin K is usually given for the first three days.

The first 24 hours are the most critical period. If the infant survives this period, the outlook is often good.

CHAPTER ONE

SHE WAS always bushed, as Roz would say, when she got off duty at the end of a day; and even more so when it was at the end of a full-schedule week. Sometimes Cynthia wondered if it was worth it. Instead of wearing herself to shreds in a small clinic for underprivileged children, she could have been living off the fat of some wealthy patient—to employ her roommate Roz's phraseology once more.

She had chosen this special work with her eyes wide open. She had known all she would come up against and that the salary, though regular, never would be large. And since then there had been another good reason for sticking to it.

A reason that stood over six feet, had shoulders and a chest that needed no padding, a shock of unruly light-brown hair, quizzical brown eyes under brows that more often than not were drawn together in a fierce scowl of concentration. Dr. Walter Sellers by name; need of physical therapy at the clinic.

Cynthia was thinking about him as she walked home that dusky spring night. The minute she was off duty she started thinking about him. Sometimes on duty, when their hands accidentally touched and their glances met across a table on which they were examining a child.

It was ridiculous, Cynthia thought now, automatically putting out a foot to step down from a curb and cross the street, how her arm could tingle all the way up to the mere contact of his fingertips and her heart start hammering against her ribs beneath the trim white uniform just because for a split second he had been aware that she was there. Professionally, at least. For if he was aware of her as a person, as a woman, he—

This thought, which she could not have completed anyway, was never finished. For Cynthia stepped back on the curb just in time. A car swung around the corner; one of those low, expensive-looking cars with lots of chromium and its top down. She caught a glimpse of a pretty girl, pale hair flying loosely about her face, a young man at her side, his dark head bare, too, laughing down at the girl. . . . And then Cynthia also caught sight of a small child farther up the street, starting to dart out after a puppy, leaving a little red wagon filled with bundles on the sidewalk. . . .

She thought she screamed out a warning just as she heard the jarring shriek of brakes that would have drowned her cry, if she had been able to utter it. The big car had swerved crazily from one side of the street to the other in an attempt to miss the puppy. It had succeeded in this, as the animal, tail between its legs and yelping with fright, had reached the other side. But one rear fender had caught the child, to toss him up into the air, spin his body around like a top, and drop him back onto the hard cement with a sickening thud.

Cynthia broke into a run. By the time she reached the still little figure, a crowd had gathered from nowhere. A moment before doors and windows of the string of slatternly tenement houses had been mostly closed, with only a dim light here and there, the narrow street practically deserted; now it was filled with the sound of voices, some frightened, some concerned, many that were lifted and angry. There was one woman whose sobbing rose high above the others, high above the cursing of men. And now there was a shrill whistle that penetrated through all the rest as a police car rounded the corner, came to an abrupt stop, and two burly officers tumbled out of it.

Apparently the other car had not stopped. A hit-and-run case. That was bad. That made it much worse. That accounted for the angry undercurrent, the swearing, some of the weeping and comments. "No right driving at such a speed. . . . No right in this section of town at all. . . . Stay where they belong, those filthy-rich. . . . Striking down one of our kids. . . . Running away. . . . Some fancy car—didja see all that chrome? And doing sixty, I'd swear. . . ."

"Does anyone know how it happened? Stand back there you!" One of the policemen held the people back, while the other elbowed his way through to tower over Cynthia, who was kneeling by the injured child. She had recognized him as one of the Mancini children—the youngest boy, Julius. . . . She

"Why, I—well, yes, I suppose I was." There had been only a moment's hesitation in the reply. During that moment the man's dark eyes had looked down to meet, and hold, Cynthia's look upturned toward his. They had seemed to question her, yet to confirm what he said and to add a personal appeal, all at the same time.

"Why did you keep going?" the policeman growled. Back of them that undercurrent started up once more, an accompanying murmur of angry accusations and threats. A wave of his night stick, like the baton of an orchestra leader, subdued it to a fainter diminuendo.

"We—I couldn't stop any sooner. That is, Officer, the car got sort of out of control—trying to miss the puppy. The streets were still slippery from the rain earlier in the day. I assure you we—I stopped the car and came back as soon as I could."

WASHINGTON — Mao Tse-tung's Communist regime has stepped up the production of such deadly drugs as heroin, opium and morphine by threefold since his forces won absolute control of China. It marks a reversal of the nation's long-range policy of stamping out this menace.

According to Harry J. Anslinger, United States narcotic commissioner, it is an "insidious, calculated and official offensive." It is designed to obtain gold, essential raw materials and other supplies. Drugs are now one of China's principal exports and sources of revenue.

They are also relied upon as a weapon in China's military and political expansion. They are counted on to destroy the morale and fighting spirit of military and civilian populations in adjacent Asian countries slated for conquest, especially South Korea, Japan and Southeast Asia. The Vietnam people's indifference to the Red invasion is attributed, in part at least, to drug-induced paralysis.

TACTICS — Mao Tse-tung

FLOWERS—Huge amounts are now reaching the West Coast of the United States on the persons of seamen and in specially constructed camphorwood chests. A recent seizure in San Francisco contained enough heroin for a million addicts doses.

"One of the dealers arrested," says Commissioner Anslinger in a recent report to the United Nations, "operated a florist shop and made heroin deliveries disguised as boxes of flowers. Other dealers make deliveries in the usual manner in such places as Chinese restaurants and seamen halls.

"Arrangements for sales are often negotiated at elaborate Chinese dinners. Chinese social clubs are frequently used to arrange for sale and delivery of narcotics. One such club is known to the authorities as a gathering place for Communist Chinese and Chinese alien smugglers."

makes no attempt to conceal his devilish strategy. As the U. S. publishes lists of defense contracts, he issues frequent orders for larger production of poppies, construction of new processing plants and expansion of his sales and distributing organizations.

The traffic is handled by the minister of finance and the minister of trade. Periodical quotations on the prices of heroin and opium are posted by the Bank of China, as Wall Street announces fluctuations in the prices of stocks.

Finance Minister Jung Tzu-ho recently reported exports valued at $60 million over a short period. But he complained that the total was 20 per cent short of the government's goal. However, when cut and sold at fantastic figures, this amount represents several hundred millions for purchase of rice, tin, rubber and other strategic goods.

DEMORALIZE — "Thus," says Anslinger, "spreading narcotic addiction to demoralize the enemy and to obtain funds for political and military purposes is not just the policy of one man in the Communist regime. It is the policy of the Communist government in mainland China."

Anslinger points out that almost all the high officials controlling this sinister traffic have been trained in espionage at Moscow. Most of the smaller fry—sales representatives, distributors, couriers, peddlers—are hardened Reds.

Incidentally, as further evidence of the hideous purpose behind the opium offensive the Communists forbid civilians and military to use drugs. Heavy penalties are provided for violators.

"From the beginning," reports Anslinger, "the Communist purveyors have realized the dual purposes of this business—money receipts and demoralization of the free peoples. The traffickers emphasize in their literature that users of these drugs lose their effectiveness as workers and soldiers."

FONT OF LEARNING

AMERICA HAS displaced traditional European fountains of knowledge as the world's educational center. A survey shows that of 107,000 young men and women attending universities outside their native lands, the United States this year had 35,000 or about a third. France was in second place with 14,000, and Britain third with 8,000.

Presence of foreign students at American colleges and universities exerts a wholesome influence in two directions—on native students and faculty who acquire valuable information and insight about the countries represented, and on the visitors who may become goodwill emissaries on their return home. In this connection it is significant that four of the five largest nationality groups in America's foreign student population are Asian Indians, Filipinos, Japanese and Chinese.

It is heartening that with the focus of the world's problems shifting to the Far East, that area has become the most fertile producer of students learning American techniques and ways. The largest numbers of visiting students are engaged in the study of engineering and humanities with the social sciences running a close third.

But an important bit of instruction they don't get in books is exposure to the innate decency and fairness of their American colleagues. It is on the integrity of the American character that may well yet hinge the fate of the world.

"COME TO Yugoslavia and enjoy unusual hunting of rare game in exciting country," exhorts the Yugoslav Review, official information journal circulated by the Tito government in the United States. Thick forests and rocky mountain wilds, it is revealed, abound in deer, antelope and all manner of smaller game.

Tito is getting in some good hunting himself, but not on the same preserve. The anti-Soviet Communist is making a good thing of the Balkan agreement linking Turkey and Greece in a defense arrangement with Yugoslavia. As the former two are NATO members, the treaty served to drag Tito into the western alliance by the skin of his teeth. Now he wants to sink his molars in.

Tito took occasion on a recent trip to Ankara to suggest that he wouldn't mind getting in on the European Defense Community. The European Council, which would be the political arm of the EDC, has shown an inclination toward internationalizing trouble spots on the Continent. Such is the solution it has suggested or the Saar, and one which Tito would like to see applied to Trieste.

The U. S. and Britain, signatories of the Italian peace treaty, are on record for the outright ceding of the port facilities to Italy, but Tito sees a way around this. And all the time that he's been proclaiming this new rash of western affection he has been

Some time ago my good friend, Carl W. Ackerman, Dean of the Faculty of Journalism of Columbia University, said:

"Today the vast majority of teachers in all fields of instruction have learned that promotion and security depend upon conformity to the prevailing community or national concept of devotion 'to the public welfare'."

Why should teachers feel that they are forced to conform? And what are they being forced to conform to? Is any man required to conform to a particular religious group to teach in our public schools? Is anyone required to belong to a political party? Must he accept a particular philosophy of life?

As one analyzes the problem, the only position that involves a teacher or anyone else in difficulties at the present time is membership in the Communist Party or support for the Communist Party or in favor of espionage or defense of those who engage in espionage.

What has that to do with conformity? This country is in peril of war with the Soviet Universal State and is struggling against this particular power not only in the United States but in every country in which we have an interest. Therefore there is an inevitable deep concern over the extent of the infiltration of subversion and espionage in this country. Any other course would be suicidal.

On the other hand, no Communist publication has been suppressed. The "Daily Worker" is published every day. A number of monthly magazines are issued by this party. Certainly these publications do not conform to a pattern. Books are published on all sides of these questions.

Dean Ackerman also made this point: "Before or after graduation a student must look for a job. He knows all employers now 'investigate' before hiring. He knows that an 'A' record is no longer a sufficient recommendation, neither is a degree. Employers ask searching questions, not about ability, resourcefulness, reliability, industry and integrity, as in the past, but also about the political and social attitudes of the applicant."

I have lived nearly as long as Dean Ackerman and I cannot recall when his description was not true. Men used to be hired on what was called "character." Perhaps that is a neolithic term, but by it was meant "a good name," "a good reputation." Receiving the mark of "A" does not even imply that a person has a good character. It may mean that he has a photographic memory.

Naturally, one investigates his staff. I recall when it used to be customary to ask for a letter from a priest or pastor or rabbi. I know employers, particularly of secretarial help, who want something like that. My office is at home and I would not employ anyone, even with a Phi Beta Kappa key, whom I would not care to introduce to my wife and children.

An "A" would not prove that I could do that. An employer who has a defense contract does not want to employ anyone who would get him or his firm into trouble. Quite apart from patriotism, it is a nuisance to have to go through investigations and explanations. It is more practical to have a check made in advance.

DIET AND HEALTH

The Premature Infant Requires Extreme Care

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

TECHNICALLY, a premature infant is one that is born before it has fully developed in the mother's womb. However, authorities consider any baby weighing less than five and one-half pounds as premature.

At present, premature births constitute about seven to ten per cent of all live births. However, they account for over 70 per cent of all infant deaths following birth.

Some Causes

Poor nutrition in the mother is one of the most important contributing factors causing prematurity. Certain obstetrical complications may also be at fault. It is important for a mother carrying an infant to keep as healthy as possible, and to have the best kind of prenatal care.

The breathing center and lungs of a premature infant are more sensitive to the effects of drugs than those of full term infants. Therefore, when a premature baby is delivered, the physician delivering it uses great care in giving narcotics to the mother.

Extreme Care Needed

At the time of the delivery, small premature infants must be handled with the greatest of care, and a heated incubator with oxygen should be on hand in every delivery room. A high temperature and humidity are recommended for the first few days of life. Oxygen is usually administered at least during the first 24 hours, and in many cases must be continued for a longer period of time.

It is extremely important to protect premature infants from infection, as they are far more susceptible than infants born at full term and they withstand infection poorly.

The intestinal tract of premature babies is poorly developed and they are therefore prone to vomiting and diarrhea. For this reason they are given only small feedings during the first few days of life. They usually survive better on a diet high in proteins, phosphorus and calcium and low in fat. Feeding of these infants with breast milk is advisable.

Small premature infants may have to be fed through medicine droppers or by special tubes inserted in their stomach. They are also susceptible to bleeding, therefore Vitamin K is usually given for the first three days. The first 24 hours are the most critical period. If the infant survives this period, the outlook is often good.

Gelett Burgess managed it, however, and this is how he did it. He implored the editor by mail, "Sir: Will you please give me the name of the distinguished author of the poem beginning 'The dismal day, with dreary pace, Bath dragged its tortuous length along?' The letter was duly published at the very top of the 'Notes and Queries' page. The next week the boy again wrote the editor: 'The author of that fine poem beginning 'The dismal day,' he pointed out, 'is Gelett Burgess. The whole poem is as follows.' The future creator of 'The Purple Cow' then supplied three long stanzas, and the Transcript used all of them.

The Vietnam people's indifference to the Red invasion is attributed, in part at least, to drug-induced paralysis.

FLOWERS—Huge amounts are now reaching the West Coast of the United States on the persons of seamen and in specially constructed camphorwood chests. A recent seizure in San Francisco contained enough heroin for a million addict doses.

"One of the dealers arrested," says Commissioner Anslinger in a recent report to the United Nations, "operated a florist shop and made heroin deliveries disguised as boxes of flowers. Other dealers make deliveries in the usual manner in such places as Chinese restaurants and seamen halls."

"Arrangements for sales are often negotiated at elaborate Chinese dinners. Chinese social clubs are frequently used to arrange for sale and delivery of narcotics. One such club is known to the authorities as a gathering place for Communist Chinese and Chinese alien smugglers."

TACTICS — Mao Tse-tung

makes no attempt to conceal his devilish strategy. As the U. S. publishes lists of defense contracts, he issues frequent orders for larger production of poppies, construction of new processing plants and expansion of his sales and distributing organizations.

The traffic is handled by the minister of finance and the minister of trade. Periodical quotations on the prices of heroin and opium are posted by the Bank of China, as Wall Street announces fluctuations in the prices of stocks.

Finance Minister Jung Tzu-ho recently reported exports valued at $60 million over a short period. But he complained that the total was 20 per cent short of the government's goal. However, when cut and sold at fantastic figures, this amount represents several hundred millions for purchase of rice, tin, rubber and other strategic goods.

emy and to obtain funds for political and military purposes is not just the policy of one man in the Communist regime. It is the policy of the Communist government in mainland China."

Anslinger points out that almost all the high officials controlling this sinister traffic have been trained in espionage at Moscow. Most of the smaller fry—sales representatives, distributors, couriers, peddlers—are hardened Reds.

Incidentally, as further evidence of the hideous purpose behind the opium offensive the Communists forbid civilians and military to use drugs. Heavy penalties are provided for violators.

"From the beginning," reports Anslinger, "the Communist purveyors have realized the dual purposes of this business—money receipts and demoralization of the free peoples. The traffickers emphasize in their literature that users of these drugs lose their effectiveness as workers and soldiers."

Life Of Air Force Families Is Told By Mrs. Jack Lewis

Children, Parents Lead Normal Lives

Mrs. William "Jack" Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kirby of 121 Park St., has written of her experiences as a serviceman's wife.

Mrs. Lewis spent a year in Japan with her husband, who has been in the service for the past 15 years, and has been stationed at Mountain Air Force Base in Idaho for the past two years.

Tech. Sgt. and Mrs. Lewis are the parents of three sons, Jackie, Kent and Dale. Mrs. Lewis serves as Air Force correspondent for a newspaper near the base.

Mrs. Lewis states that the lives of NCO wives are very similar to those of their "sister" civilian wives, with a few advantages, some say disadvantages, thrown in. The main objective of the average Air Force wife is to maintain a desirable and happy home for her airman until they reach the "Golden Twenty" the goal of all career airmen and their wives.

She may be called upon to maintain this home in any state in the United States or one of the foreign countries. The home may be a comfortable trailer, a deserted barracks, a villa in Italy or a castle on the Rhine.

Putting down roots, according to Mrs. Lewis, is only wishful thinking. Because of sudden transfers, the household goods must consist of the necessary items, with only a few treasures of sturdy construction, which can be packed hurriedly and shipped with little danger of breakage.

Mrs. Lewis states that a common phrase among Air Force wives concerning packing is, "I've done it so often, I could do it with my eyes closed."

Surprisingly, this transferring apparently does not affect the school age child. Teachers report that Air Force children seem to adapt themselves easily to any situation. These children learn geography by experience. Mrs. Lewis quotes the remark of a child born in Japan who commented, "Teacher, I don't believe you have ever been home, you must have always lived overseas."

Like other American wives Mrs. Lewis states that the NCO wives send their children to school, shop for bargains, have coffee with their neighbors, go to church, attend PTA meetings, and worry about balancing the budget.

The children of these service men and their wives belong to the Boy and Girl Scouts, have birthday parties, attend the Saturday matinee and live very normal lives.

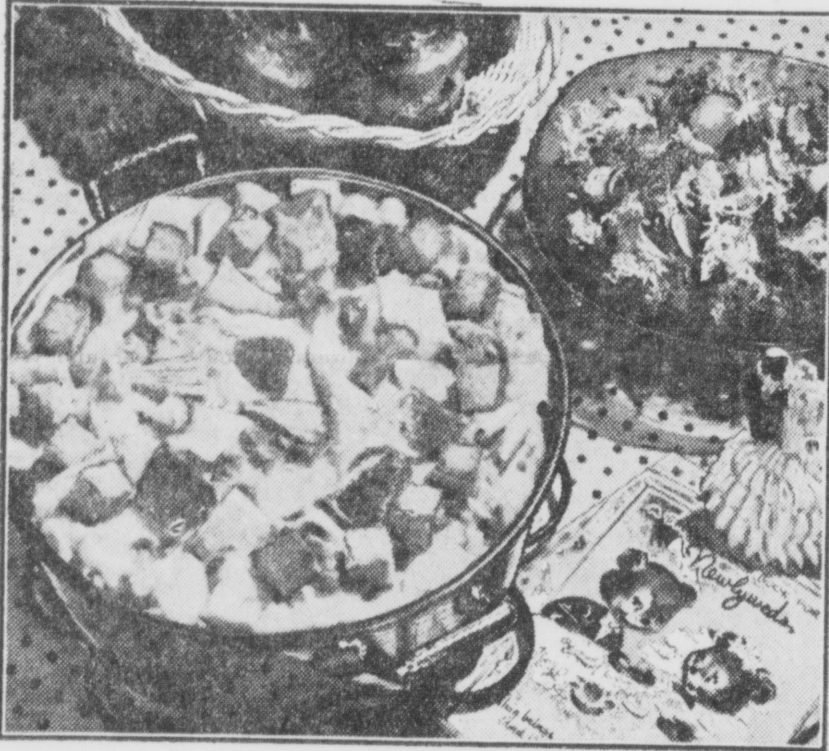

The coffee break among service wives is almost traditional. There may be as few as two neighbors present or as many as can be squeezed into the quarters. This pleasant part of the day brings many treasured experiences and new friends to the participants.

Mrs. Lewis states that even though the wives are often separated from their husbands for long periods of time, there is a joyful reunion between each farewell. The thrill of seeing the "Big Bird" come winging in after "sweating out a mission" is an experience missed by the civilian wives.

The wives realize that they are playing an important role in the defense of their country. Mrs. Lewis quotes an Air Corps official who says, "If I should name the staff a General needs to make him great, I should list them in this order: first, an intelligent wife to give him sound advice at critical times; a beautiful wife clever in social graces to supervise his entertaining, and a loving wife to rear his children, save his wounds and be his inspiration."

Mrs. Lewis concludes by stating, "If you listen intently you will detect a note of pride in the voice that says, 'I'm an Air Force Wife.'"

"Here Comes The Bride"—To The Kitchen

AFTER the honeymoon, sooner or later, every June bride finds herself facing the stove. Her aim . . . to cook a meal her husband will enjoy and she'll be proud to serve.

Whether a freshman or graduate cook, you'll be glad for the many modern foods that help during newlywed days. It's a good idea to browse through your grocery store and note the many cooking helps all ready for you. Then stock up. Canned meats and fish, condensed soups, precooked-rice, biscuit mix, frozen main dishes, etc.

Next step is to stock up with tempting, easy recipes. Casseroles, naturally, are one of your best bets. Reach to your shelf of convenience foods for a can of mushroom soup and one of tuna — plus a package of noodles. What a heavenly combination you can create with these three. And the variations possible are dazzling. It can be cream of chicken soup with a can of chicken, or cream of celery soup with salmon. Each comes forth as a knock-out noodle casserole. Memorize this prize recipe pattern:

Mushroom Tuna Triumph
1 can (1½ cups) condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
1 cup drained flaked tuna (7-ounce can)
Blend soup and milk; then stir in remaining ingredients, except crumbs. In a 1½-quart casserole; sprinkle crumbs on top. (Note: To cook noodles add them to boiling water and cook about 15 minutes, or until tender.) Bake casserole in moderate oven (375° F.) about 25 minutes. Makes 4 generous servings.

For Celery Salmon Casserole, follow recipe with tuna; but use cream of celery soup instead of cream of mushroom.

For Chicken Casserole, follow recipe with tuna; but use chicken instead of tuna. And use cream of chicken soup instead of cream of celery.

SOUP SCOOPS

Vegetable Juices Appease Appetites: Now comes the season for backyard suppers and picnics, happy get-togethers where everyone "gets in the act" of cooking. Better have a large can of vegetable juices chilled and ready to offer around. While the gang waits for the franks to fry, serve them the ice cold vegetable juices, and appease the appetites enjoyably.

Country Club Play Features Mixed Foursome

A total of eighteen couples participated in a Mixed Foursome of golf Sunday at Pickaway Country Club.

The play ended in a four-way tie for first place. Sudden death play was featured in the play-off, with first place going to Mrs. Luther Bower and Arthur Marshall.

Mrs. D. J. Carpenter and Bernie Trecher won second place; Mrs. Willard Timmons and Richard Firth, third, and Mrs. Jack LeRoy and Harold Hott, fourth.

Mrs. Robert Kibler and George Fuhrman took fifth honors, while Mrs. Richard Firth and Larry Gordon and Mrs. Arthur Marshall and Frank LeRoy tied for sixth place.

Ladies Day is scheduled for 9 a. m. Thursday at the Country Club. A four-ball Mixed Foursome will be held at 4 p. m. July 11.

Dinner Party Marks Birthday

Mrs. Margaret Shadley of E. High St. was hostess to a dinner party Sunday in Wardell Party home, in honor of her son, Robert Shadley.

The occasion for the event was the birthday anniversary of Mr. Shadley.

Those present for the dinner included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shadley and son, Robert Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parker of Whisler and the hostess.

Group Visits In Kingston

Mrs. Talmer Wise of E. Franklin St., Mrs. Minerva Frazier of N. Pickaway St., Mrs. Edward McCann of S. Pickaway St., and Mrs. Florence Weaver of Butler, Pa. houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. McCann, motored to Kingston Sunday, where they were guests of Miss Mary Harpster.

Miss Harpster, superintendent of Circleville Home and Hospital, is convalescing in her home, following recent surgery in University hospital, Columbus.

Smiths Return From Europe

Dr. and Mrs. Robert G. Smith have returned to their home on Circle Drive following a six-week tour of Europe.

During the tour, Dr. Smith attended medical conventions in

Choose Glassware For Double Duty And For Beauty

The bride buying her glassware on an apronstring can achieve the same glamorous effect with dime-store purchases as the town's richest hostess does with her expensive imports—if she follows a few simple rules.

1. Judge clear glassware against a dark sleeve or purse a few feet away from the display for a better idea of how it will look at home.
2. Be sure your glassware is well-proportioned, functional and balanced.
3. Buy double-duty glassware. Put milk, iced drinks, highballs in tumblers; fruit and pudding in sherbet glasses.
4. Think about heat-resistant ovenware which can go to the table as sparkling serving dishes.
5. Save time by air-drying glasses, rim down, when ammonia or detergent are used.
6. Store stemware upright on the shelf with different sizes in rows from front to back for easy accessibility.

Stitch, Chatter 4-H Club Meets

Stitch and Chatter 4-H club met in the home of Bernidene Van Fossen for a regular meeting. Mrs. William Defenbaugh and Mrs. Donald Hardman, leaders checked progress on project work.

Edith Defenbaugh gave a demonstration on how to fit a sleeve. Mrs. Hardman distributed pamphlets on how to put in zippers. The group chose Elizabeth Dresbach as the club health contestant.

Games and contests were directed by the recreation leader and refreshments were served by the hostess.

Richard Porter Is Graduated

Richard Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Porter, received his Bachelor of Fine Arts degree with a major in speech therapy at Ohio University's sesquicentennial commencement exercises.

He also received a commission as a Second Lieutenant in the Air Force Reserves.

The exercises were attended by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Porter and daughter, Marilyn of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter of Columbus and Mrs. E. D. Porter of Coshocton and Mrs. Richard Porter of Athens.

Personals

Mrs. Howard Clark and Mrs. H. E. Valentine will be hostesses to GOP Booster club at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the Clark home at 221 Walnut St.

Regular meeting of Circleville chapter 90, Order of Eastern Star, will be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the Masonic Temple.

Miss Harriet Morris of Salt-creek Township has gone to Chicago, where she will join a group planning to visit Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies. They also plan to tour San Francisco, Los Angeles and the Grand Canyon before returning home.

Lois Ann Wittich, daughter of Mrs. F. Wittich, left Sunday for Oxford where she will attend a Summer Music Workshop at Miami University.

Members of the Lions Club Auxiliary will entertain their husbands and families with a picnic at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at Goldcliff Park.

Republican Women Plan Garden Party

The Pickaway County Women's Republican Club will hold an annual Garden Party and Tea from 3 to 6 p. m. June 28 in the home of the president, Mrs. H. O. Caldwell, on State Route 23.

Guest speaker for the event will be the Honorable C. William O'Neill, Attorney General of Ohio. Special music will be presented by the Crawford Trio, vocalists of Columbus, and Miss Miriam Ward, pianist.

All Republican candidates have been invited to the affair, and will be introduced to the guests.

Mrs. H. E. Louis will serve as chairman of hostesses, and will be assisted by members of the Executive Board of the Women's Republican Club.

Peasants Of French Empire Caught In Political Swirl

(Editor's note—The tides of opposition beat fiercely against the empire France built on two sides of the world. Indochina is all but adrift, and North Africa is shaken by the waves of nationalism. William L. Ryan has surveyed the prospects in both areas, as well as in France itself. This is the first of a series of articles this week in which he portrays the tottering empire—and how it weakens.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

TUNIS — Nguyen Ngoc Toi is in an Indochina rice field.

Mohammed Aly herds goats in Morocco.

Political turmoil swirls about these peasants at outposts of the French empire, but it means nothing to them. They are illiterate and care little who rules them. They want to be left in peace to eke out a living the way their forefathers did for ages before them.

They are in the vast majority. In contrast is an educated crust—men like Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia, Mohammed Khouane of Algeria and Allal el Fassi of Morocco. These are Nationalist leaders dedicated to driving French political domination out of North Africa. It is ironic that France educated them.

Even Ho Chi Minh, Communist leader who seized the Nationalist movement in Indochina, owes much of his education to France.

Once native leaders looked upon the French as miracle workers. France was strong and promised them a better way of life. The destruction of French grandeur in the wake of two world wars produced cracks in the French empire that are still widening. Indochina is slipping away in the east. A new Indochina-like problem, this one in North Africa, is brewing.

In today's world of swift communications, propaganda, subversion and rising nationalism, the methods of a half century ago, when France was at the height of her power, do not suffice.

"Force no longer frightens us," a North African Nationalist told me. "The French mass their troops and play the Marseillaise to impress us with their glory and their power, but we are no longer impressed."

The misfortune of France is this: It displays less and less ability to cope with the complex problem of defending its important position in today's world.

The misfortune of the people of the French union who aspire to national independence is this: They are subject to being used by outside forces. No matter how just their aspirations, no matter how sympathetic ears in the West, their future is bound up with the struggle of western civilization for survival. Political instability in areas important to defense is an expensive luxury from the West's point of view.

France's splintered politics, the tug and pull of ancient fears and prejudices, the faithful service to Moscow by Communists in Paris—all these have served to delay western defense plans so much that the European defense community may never come to pass with the unity in which it was conceived.

Moscow plays with French politics skillfully. In Geneva, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov made a tough, unbending speech, and the French government fell, to be succeeded by another likely more willing to appease its way out of difficulties.

Many French politicians, ears attuned to grass roots weariness from eight years of warfare in Southeast Asia, announced themselves willing to write off Indochina. "Let's make the best of it" became the slogan.

How did it all come to pass? France consolidated her empire at the height of her power and glory. After her defeat by Prussia in 1870, France was determined to show the world she would be a world power. She pinned down her authority in the Far East. She turned to North Africa and made Tunisia a protectorate. She moved into Morocco and by 1912 established her authority.

The show was impressive. France put an end to tribal warfare, built roads, harbors, industries, great white cities. She brought health and hygiene so local populations now are more than doubled. She even brought education, though belatedly and to a relative few. Native leaders looked up to the French as wonder workers, miracle men who could make a wilderness flourish and even make native leaders richer.

French prestige remained little damaged in the eyes of such people until France lay prostrate at Hitler's feet. The Allies' slogan of "self-determination," an expression of conscience amid a war for survival, found attentive ears in colonial areas. There was little discussion then whether such areas were ready for self rule.

The postwar period brought further splintering of French political factions, rising Communist power in metropolitan France, indecision in Paris, coincident with the growing tide of nationalism.

In the East, the sweep of Red power permitted communism to capture the Nationalist movement. In North Africa, the rise of the Arab League gave the once tiny Nationalist force the idea that hundreds of millions of Arabs backed its aspirations.

Concessions might have satisfied

Nationalist demands—particularly the demands of moderates who admitted they would need French help for a long time to come. But few political concessions were forthcoming, and the number of moderate grew less.

Today France moves from crisis to crisis. The French found that weapons, no matter how modern, and soldiers, no matter how numerous, were not enough. It was impossible to bomb an ideology.

In Indochina, the French retreated into their Maginot Line idea, defending what they thought they could and fighting against a steady attrition of harassment. When the enemy decided to come into the open and fight, it was on his terms. France lost a great battle at Dien Bien Phu. The tide was running against her. Politically she had nothing to fill the vacuum. The only native organization was Communist-controlled. France had permitted no effective political organization to counter it.

Today a large section of French opinion hopes to salvage the rest of the union. Businessmen quickly withdrew from Indochina, first hopefully setting themselves up in North Africa, and then, seeing there, too, the seeds of trouble, shifting to the more solidly held section of the empire in West Africa.

Once again a pattern takes shape. In Tunisia a "liberation army" already is in being. One cannot say for sure how Nationalist it is, just how much foreign influence is in it. But it requires only a small group of disciplined opportunists to change a Nationalist movement into a Communist one. The world learned that in Indochina.

Man Trapped 8 Days In Boxcar

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (P)—Food and water are on Milford Alvin Fitzgerald's mind today after being trapped in a sealed railroad car for eight days.

Dehydrated from the long ordeal, the 28-year-old man was freed last night after a hobo reported hearing a noise.

Fitzgerald, at first unable to talk, was hospitalized in "poor, but improving" condition. After several hours he began to mumble incoherently and finally, he said: "I'm awful hungry."

Nurses at Pinal County General Hospital at Florence fed him chipped ice at first, later soft foods. Southern Pacific Railroad officials said Fitzgerald, of Seattle and Spring Valley, Calif., apparently had climbed into the car loaded with lumber in Washington State a week ago Saturday.

Margaret Truman Schedules Debut

MOUNTAINHOME, Pa. (P)—Margaret Truman will make her theater debut as scheduled at the Pocono Playhouse tonight. She has a part in the play "Autumn Crocus."

Mrs. Rowena Stevens, Playhouse producer, said the daughter of former President Truman, decided to appear as planned after consulting with her mother in Kansas City by telephone about her father's condition. The ex-President is recuperating from an emergency operation Saturday night in which his appendix and gall bladder were removed.

MODELING her new summer straw bonnet in a New York pet shop, Flo, a three-year-old cheetah, throws a knowing wink of approval. She obviously wants to look her best in case someone might come in looking for a household pet. (International)

20,000 Witnesses Attend Nuptials

ROAN MOUNTAIN, Tenn.-N.C. (P)—A young couple said their marriage vows atop this 6,300-foot peak yesterday before an estimated 20,000.

It was the annual Rhododendron Festival and 500 acres of the crimson flower set this mountain aflame.

The bride is Miss Edith Belle Cunningham of Maryville, Tenn., and the groom is Thomas D. Woods of Greenback, Tenn.

KARACHI (P)—The United States will send American textbooks and technical literature to Pakistan for sale to students under a provisional agreement. Similar agreements are in force between the United States and 18 other countries.

Sokolsky's These Days

Dean Ackerman objects to various departments of government checking on persons. I have been investigated by experts, probably since the day I was born. Every once in a while, I hear about something like that. So far as I am concerned, it gives me no bother.

Nearly every year, the Internal Revenue Bureau goes over my private affairs with a fine comb to discover what I receive and spend and pay to the Government. That is as much a check on me currently as some agency of government asking me whether I knew Emma Goldman or Leon Trotsky or Mao Tse-tung.

As a matter of fact, I sometimes envy those geniuses who manage to get paid in cash and do not have to write down every item of earning and expenditure. It is even becoming difficult to sin with all the scrutiny that is going on. But there it is and we take it in our stride and if a fellow's nose is fairly clean, he survives even a field check. Nobody who has no record to hide need worry about his "character." As a matter of fact, a little investigating even helps to confound his enemies.

China Population Tops 600 Million

LONDON (P)—Peiping radio says China's population is more than 600 million. The figure includes the island of Formosa, controlled by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces.

A broadcast heard here last night said Peiping's National Census Office reported a total of 601,912,371 people, as of midnight June 30, 1953.

QUIET and RESTFUL

No Creaks or Squeaks . . . No Disturbing Noises!

Vibrapac Concrete Masonry Gives You —

- FIRE SAFETY
- STORM SAFETY
- WEATHER TIGHTNESS
- BUILT-IN INSULATION
- LIFELONG DURABILITY
- LOW UPKEEP COST
- LOW INSURANCE RATES
- EASY FINANCING
- HEALTHFULNESS
- VERMIN-PROOFNESS
- STRUCTURAL BEAUTY
- LOW BUILDING COST
- RAPID CONSTRUCTION

You'll never have a "haunted house" if you build with modern Vibrapac Concrete Masonry. Those mysterious creaks and squeaks that sometimes wake you out of a sound sleep or bother you while you are trying to rest and relax . . . these disturbing noises will be conspicuous by their absence.

Solidly anchored walls of Concrete Masonry Units, with cored "dead air" spaces built right into them, and the cellular nature of the material itself, all combine to minimize outside noises. And if you use Concrete Masonry for interior construction, too . . . you automatically do away with those disturbing creaks and squeaks that are ordinarily caused by warping and swelling of floor boards, studdings, joists, etc., which often spread and strain out of position with weather changes. With Concrete Masonry there can be no sagging, swelling, bulging or warping.

So if you want a quiet and restful home . . . do as so many other home builders are doing today...Build with Concrete Masonry!

Police Chief Larry Kendig said the youth had used the mine pit to dispose of cars during the last seven months. He said O'Boyle had several hundred dollars worth of automobile accessories in the basement of his home.

CONCRETE MASONRY
Makes this Home

QUIET and RESTFUL

No Creaks or Squeaks... No Disturbing Noises!

You'll never have a "haunted house" if you build with modern Vibrapac Concrete Masonry. Those mysterious creaks and squeaks that sometimes wake you out of a sound sleep or bother you while you are trying to rest and relax... these disturbing noises will be conspicuous by their absence.

Solidly anchored walls of Concrete Masonry Units, with cored "dead air" spaces built right into them, and the cellular nature of the material itself, all combine to minimize outside noises. And if you use Concrete Masonry for interior construction, too... you automatically do away with those disturbing creaks and squeaks that are ordinarily caused by warping and swelling of floor boards, studdings, joists, etc., which often spread and strain out of position with weather changes. With Concrete Masonry there can be no sagging, swelling, bulging or warping.

So if you want a quiet and restful home... do as so many other home builders are doing today... Build with Concrete Masonry!

THEY TRAIN AIR 'TIGERS'!

Scott Air Base Brain Center of Program

Lt. Gen. Robert W. Harper

Maj. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus

By CHARLES J. THOBABEN
Central Press Staff Writer

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill.—The greatest effort in history to produce tigers has its brain center here at Scott Air Force base.

It's no zoo that's being run. But it is the greatest military training operation known in the world today.

Scott is the headquarters of the United States Air Force's Air Training Command, which includes in its operations some 300,000 men, officers and aviation cadets.

To the United States Air Force has been given a primary responsibility for maintaining the peace and security, not only of the home nation itself, but of all its allies scattered around the world.

To accomplish this mission requires a vast reservoir of new men, the members of the "tiger" training program designed to produce young pilots with the desire to fly the fastest planes the world has produced, the jets of today.

The USAF has long since realized the glamor days of aviation pioneering have long since passed, that the day of seeking adventure because a field is new is long since gone. There must be other appeals to make today's young men want to fly at sonic and supersonic speeds.

The Air Force has selected able men to run the program, men who think as well as act, men who think in terms of today's young men, not of their own generation alone.

THEY ARE Lt. Gen. Robert W. Harper, commander of the ATRC, and his vice commander, Maj. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus.

Even a few minutes' conversation with these generals will convince an interviewer, of their deep insight into what makes today's young American tick. Every decision takes this into consideration and is aimed at making the entire training program conform to that modern, youthful thinking.

Perhaps it would not be amiss to mention a fragment of these two officers' backgrounds. General Harper graduated from West Point in 1924 as an infantry officer, but entered the Army's then-infant air arm in 1925, graduating from old Kelly Field in Texas in 1926.

Among other things, Harper set up and maintained the air corridors across Russian-held territory that made the Berlin airlift.

GENERAL BARCUS, like a surprising number of present-day senior Air Force officers, started his professional life as a horse cavalryman. Changing to the air many years ago, the general climaxed a long career before coming to ATRC by commanding the Fifth Air Force in Korea. No one who fought in Korea can fail to know what the Fifth Air Force did there.

Under his command, General Harper has more than two score bases, encompassing the three commands of ATRC—the Flying Training Air Force, based at Waco, Tex.; the Crew Training Air Force, based at Randolph Air Force Base, Tex., and the Technical Training Air Force, based at Gulfport, Miss.

Among the three, they teach the airmen, the officers and the WAF of the Air Force to do their jobs, whether it be flying a jet bomber or fighter or flying a typewriter keyboard. Until they have passed through at least one—and usually it's at least two—of these training air forces they are not full-fledged members of the United States Air Force.

Crippled Arm Helps Furgol Win U.S. Open

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP)—Probably the most untalkative golfer, ever to trod a fairway is the new U. S. Open golf champion and he can credit much to a crippled left arm.

Ed Furgol, a lean, 37-year-old professional from Clayton, Mo., put together consistent rounds of 71, 70, 71 and 72 over the long par-70 Baltusrol course for a 284—good enough to finish one stroke in front of 23-year-old Gene Littler, 1953 amateur champion.

Baltusrol's narrow fairways and tough rough offered Furgol little trouble. His left arm, 10 inches shorter than his right and stiff from the elbow down, guided the ball true to the target.

"My left elbow was a little stronger than Hogan's," said Furgol jokingly afterwards. "It kept me out of the rough." Defending champion Ben Hogan, seeking his fifth title, ended five strokes off the pace with a 289.

Furgol injured his left elbow at the age of 12 when he fell off parallel bars at Utica, N. Y. The injury never healed correctly and he was left with a crooked, cocked arm. Acting on doctors' orders, he took up golf to strengthen the arm and became an outstanding amateur before turning to pro in 1945.

"But I never could afford any lessons," he said. "What I learned about the game came from watching others and constant practice."

Millers Surge Into Second Place

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Millers climaxed a sudden winning surge Sunday by sweeping into sole possession of second place in the American Association with a doubleheader victory over Toledo.

The Millers won 6-2 and 7-1 as Ramon Monzant hurled a five-hitter in the opener and youthful lefty Jim Constable fashioned a three-hitter in the closer.

Indianapolis, meantime, continued a comfortable lead by beating Columbus twice 2-1 and 4-0.

In other games St. Paul and Louisville, tied for third, divided—the Saints winning 5-4 before losing 9-4—and Kansas City beat Charleston twice 10-7 and 3-2.

Baltimore Fans Bellow Boos Now

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore fans have gotten around to booing their losing Orioles steadily, but they're still paying to do it.

There were 17,149 of them who bought tickets yesterday to put the Orioles 4,732 over the half-million admission mark in 26 dates.

That's a healthy average of 19,412 and a total higher than the St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia Athletics drew all last season.

But there was a decided change in the fans' tone yesterday when the team lost a double-header 7-1

EJECTION of a player in a San Francisco-Portland game at Frisco was just one of two outs credited to Umpire Al Mutart, who also thumbed out this unidentified fan who protested the first decision—after running onto the field. (International)

By The Associated Press

The diet of "once a week" pitching appears to agree with Bob Feller. The veteran righthander boasts a three-game winning streak today after downing the Red Sox 3-1 yesterday for the 253rd victory of his brilliant major league career.

Stanford University began defense of its national collegiate golf championship today on a soggy Brae Burn County Club course, Houston, Texas. A field of 147 players teed off in the first of two 18-hole qualifying rounds in the 57th annual NCAA tournament.

A visit to Toledo's Sports Arena proved to be an unhappy one for Joe Miceli, eighth ranking welterweight from New York. Toledo's Pat Lowry won a split decision and 7-2 to, of all teams, the neighboring Washington Senators. The Orioles have now lost eight in a row.

over Miceli Saturday night and the Easterner hurt his left hand in the first round. He plans to have it X-rayed today in New York.

The NCAA Golf Coaches Assn. last night elected Bob Kepler of Ohio State University president to succeed Labron Harris of Oklahoma AM.

Tommy Holmes, manager of Elmira, N. Y., in the Eastern League, is well-remembered by fans in that loop. He was the batting champ with Binghamton in 1938. His average was .368.

Redleg Bats Boom To Take Double Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs, nervous from ninth inning jitters, found a solution yesterday with a nine-run first inning.

In the first two games with the Philadelphia Phillies over the weekend, the Reds had to call Frank Smith in the ninth to pull the Reds to victories.

Fred Baczewski needed no help yesterday in posting a 4-3 victory in the first game of a doubleheader, the third straight Redleg win by a one-run margin.

The nightcap was settled quickly. The Reds opened the first frame with a nine-run barrage, including four runs off their ex-comrade, Herm Wehmeier, and then went on to win 15-6 for their fourth consecutive triumph over the Phils.

Wehmeier, known for his home run gifts at Crosley Field faced five men and gave four of them bases on balls.

The Reds sent 12 men to bat against four pitchers in their biggest inning of the season.

Ten of the 25 Red hits off the Phillies were for extra bases. Five

Stock Car Spills; Driver Uninjured

Competition was rugged Saturday night at Washington C. H. Speedway. A few spills occurred, with Stan Roberts losing control of his car, causing it to flip over six times. The door flew open and Roberts was thrown out. When the car finally came to a halt, Roberts was standing close by, signalling the officials he was O. K. He came back to win third place in the Consolation Race.

Top Hat 9 Defeats Chillicothe 6 To 5

Top Hat Restaurant of 'Circleville, came steadily from behind to squeak past Colonial Bar and Grill, of Chillicothe, 6 to 5. The game, played Sunday at Chillicothe, saw the Circleville team score one run in each of the second, third and fifth innings while Colonial erased that with a four run burst in the fourth.

Top Hat went ahead in the top of the sixth with two runs and iced the game with a lone counter in the top of the seventh. Colonial came within one run of tying by pushing across a marker in the last of the seventh.

Line score follows:

Top Hat 011 012 1 — 6 6 0
Colonial 000 400 1 — 5 6 3

Injured Injun Returns, Helps Win Twin Bill

CLEVELAND (AP)—Al Smith celebrated his return to the Cleveland lineup yesterday by belting a home run in each part of a double bill as the Indians toppled the Boston Red Sox 3-1 and 9-2.

The young outfielder, sidelined a week with a pulled leg muscle, drove in five runs. He supported five-hit pitching by Bob Feller in the opener and respectable hurling by Art Houtteman in the nightcap.

That gave the first place Tribe a four-game lead in the American League.

Smith's first home run tied the score. His fifth homer of the season broke a tie in the second game.

Another returnee, Al Rosen, was in the starting lineup for the first time since June 4. Playing with his fractured finger still taped, he poked two singles.

Feller fanned two batters yesterday for a total of 2,504, one less than Christy Mathewson's total.

The 35-year-old veteran, who walked only two while winning his fourth game, declared:

"I didn't get tired at all and felt just as fresh at the end of the game as at the beginning."

His Sunday pitching partner, Houtteman, piled up his fifth victory in a row and seventh of the season against three defeats.

Smith's first-inning homer came after Jim Piersall registered the first Red Sox run. His second homer scored Naragon and Houtteman who had singled, breaking a 1-1 tie.

IT'S the 13th major league campaign for Stan (The Man) Musial, slugging star of the Cardinals, but apparently it's not a jinx, year. Anything but, for that matter, for Stan is having himself another big year. At the moment he leads the National league in batting, home runs, runs-batted-in and runs and is runner-up in hits. Musial, who has a major league batting average of .345 for his 12 years with the Cards, has won the batting title six times and has been voted the most valuable player in the loop three times.

Ban On Homer Bonus Saves Giants Cash

2 Pinch Hit Blows Would Have Cost Leo Durocher $100 Each

By The Associated Press
Warren Giles' embargo on the $100 home run bonus came just in time to save Leo Durocher a lot of money.

Yesterday two Giant pinch hitters, Bobby Hofman and Dusty Rhodes, tied a record by hitting pinch homers in the same inning of New York's 7-6 victory over St. Louis. Wes Westrum also homered in the sixth inning and Al Dark hit one earlier.

If Giles hadn't sounded a warning, Leo probably still would be handing out $100 bills as he did last week to Bill Taylor and Hank Thompson.

The Giant homers yesterday routed Vic Raschi and hung a defeat on Cot Deal. But the New Yorkers' lead was sliced to one half game by Brooklyn's double victory.

The Dodgers again fell back on relief pitching as they knocked off Chicago twice, 6-4 and 6-3. Clem Labine bailed out the first game and Bob Milliken and Ben Wade held the fort in the second after Billy Loes left.

For the first time since Sept. 6, 1953, Pittsburgh actually won a double-header, downing Milwaukee 2-1 in 10 innings when Lew Burdette hit Curt Roberts with a pitched ball with the bases loaded. Gair Allie's three-run homer gave the Pirates the second game, 6-3 over Bob Buhl.

Cincinnati bumped off Philadelphia twice, 4-3 and 15-6, chasing their old teammate, Herm Wehmeier. The Redlegs scored nine runs in the first inning of the second game.

Cleveland hiked its American League lead to four games by beating their old Boston sparmates around the head 3-1 and 9-2 while New York and Chicago were dividing two. Bobby Feller's five-hitter and Art Houtteman's 10-hitter both had home run help from Al Smith.

The Yankees managed 20 hits, including home runs by Bill Skowron, Gil McDougald, Mickey Mantle and Joe Collins in thumping Chicago 16-6 in the first game. Then Bob Keegan squared matters for the White Sox 7-3, becoming the first American League pitcher to win 10 games this year. The second game was held to eight innings by darkness. Sherm Lollar's two-run homer in the seventh was the big blow.

Baltimore's losing streak stretched to eight straight when Washington's Connie Marrero and Dean Stone pitched the Senators to a double victory, 7-1 and 7-2.

A Philadelphia-at-Detroit double-header was rained out.

It was 6-3 in favor of St. Louis when the Giants cut loose in the sixth. After Willie Mays singled with one out, Hofman batted for Billy Gardner and homered. Westrum slammed the ball out to the left field roof, ending Raschi's day. Rhodes, batting for Marv Grissom, the eventual winner blasted reliever Deal's first pitch into the lower right field stands for the winning run.

Roy Campanella tripled a bunt single, double and triple and Carl Furillo hit a three-run homer in Brooklyn's first-game triumph, in which Labine's stylish relief work saved the day for Carl Erskine. Milliken and Wade allowed three hits in the last 6-2-3 innings after Loes departed in the second game.

Pittsburgh's Max Surkont, former Milwaukee Brave, defeated his old mates for the third time when Burdette plunked Roberts with a pitch. Allie, a .221 hitter before the double-header, was the big blow of a six-run rally in the seventh inning that chased Buhl with his fifth defeat of a non-winning season.

Gus Bell and Tex Kluszewski hit successive doubles in the seventh inning for Cincinnati's first-game success at Philadelphia. Wehmeier walked four men and contributed a wild pitch to the nine-run inning before he gave way to a stream of successors. The big inning took 55 minutes as Cincy scored nine runs on only four hits, an error and six walks. Art Fowler won his fifth on relief.

Lions Win Non-League Game Over Columbus Nine 15 To 8

Circleville's Pony League Lions smothered the Columbus South Side Pony Leaguers 15 to 8 in a non-league game Saturday night. The game was played at Lewis Park under the lights.

The Lions jumped on Columbus for four runs in the bottom of the first after the visitors had drawn first blood with a pair of runs. In the second, Columbus' Parritt drove in two runs with a triple. But the Lions came back with two markers of their own to make the score 6 to 4.

After Columbus pushed across another run, the Lions exploded in their half of the third. Morrison smacked out a triple to drive in two of the six runs the Lions scored.

Each side scored three times in the fourth. The game was called after Columbus batted in the fifth because of the late hour. The four and a half innings took three hours to play.

Columbus threatened in the top of the fifth by loading the bases with none out. Mearns, who had come in to relieve Morrison, retired the side with the bases still jammed and no runs scoring.

PARLITT had two-for-three for the losers. For the Lions, Morrison and Beck each had two-for-four while Stewart had three-for-four. Line score follows:

Columbus	221	30	—	8	4
Lions	426	3x	—	15	8

Stand Back, Ladies! Valentino Rides Again!

Movie Thrillers Of Yesteryear Going On Sale

Oldtime Productions Sure To Slay Or Swoon Viewers

A film exchange is beating a nostalgic drum to whip up sale of the old, near-forgotten films that our teen-agers probably never even heard mentioned. (And they wouldn't pay to watch 'em, that's for sure, buster!)

It's figured, perhaps, that the old blood-curdlers and heart throbbers will find a market in these days of the home projector hobby, just for the laughs — or maybe a sigh or two from anyone who recalls the plaintive thrills on the opera house piano, and the wild love scenes from the days of bowler derbies and flowing skirts. At any rate, the asking price so far is much too high for the average "home movie" addict.

If you're willing to pay, however, you can watch the "Sensational Revival by Popular Demand" of Rudolph Valentino in "Son of the Sheik", complete with Vilma Banky. You'll have to be braced to watch this one, because the circular advertisement says it's "replete with romance, alive with vigorous, red-blooded drama, and teeming with tempestuous love-making in the picturesque setting of the Great Sahara."

And when you least expect it "Valentino dashes across the desert on his swift Arabian charger, straight into your heart." Wow! What a swooner!

Of, if you prefer the historical stuff, you can have "Early Oklahoma," with Lamar Johnson and a cast of real Indians. Or the news reels that showed them pulling the draft numbers in World War I, the Long Tom Explosion, and the capture of St. Mihiel.

What's that? You want the hilarious stuff? We've got just the thing — Marie Dressler in "The Love Riot", with the Comedy Kops. Or Charlie Chaplin in "The Paper Hanger", or "The Tramp."

It's a powerful list they're offering, but we're sort of disappointed nevertheless. Nowhere in the ads do we see Pearl White in "The Iron Claw", and everybody knows that was one that made you reach over and choke the stranger sitting next to you.

Come back, Pearl! Come back, just for a day. We want to see how you dodged that freight train down in a coal mine, just ten seconds before the fuse burned into the dynamite.

WHEN THE Circleville newsboy explained he would have to take a day off on account of he was going to have important work to do at a funeral, it stirred curiosity. What was he going to do at the funeral? "Well," he said with due show of dignity, "I'm one of the ball bearings!"

THE OLD reliable bypass argument isn't dead. It isn't even fading away. It's just been going through another one of those behind-the-scenes struggles to get enough property owner signatures. But there's one important hold-out who can't sign "until my lawyer tells me it's okay." And the attorney in the case is just snickering. And snickering. And snickering. For shame!

WHEREAS THIS has been proclaimed here as the Year of the All-Ohio World Series, and,

Whereas the Cleveland Indians have already started their drive and,

Whereas the Cincinnati Reds with great restraint have been saving up their hidden power for the big dash into the critical weeks, and, Whereas the Cincy boys have now cut loose to chase the critics and convince the doubters, Be it Resolved therefore that this is the last warning to those who want to roll in wealth for the rest of their lives. Get in on that easy dough now while the odds are still good!

DON'T LOOK NOW, but there's an argument brewing that outranks who won the Army-McCarthy hearings, the post-mortem on the Rocky-Ezzard brawl and the penitential prospects of the Cleveland Indians. And it all revolves on a plain, ordinary, every-day question:

Is Yellow Bud (Yellowbud) one word or two?

Gradually, from all corners of the Pickaway Plains and across the countryside north to Columbus, the pros and cons are determined to settle the point once and for all. And for many weeks past the debate has reached into the sacred premises of homelife, finding wives shouting at their husbands, and the husbands yelling at—well, just yelling.

Under no circumstances whatsoever will we suggest that it's Yellow Bud, or Yellowbud. Let's you and him fight, and we'll hold the coats.

THOSE WHOSE job it is to guard the nation's coastline surely know what they're doing, but all the same it's sort of surprising to find a very recent Government Printing Office pamphlet which offers, for $4.25, the following handy manual:

"Complete list of lights and other marine aids, Atlantic Coast of the United States. Volumes 1-to-6 combined. Corrected to January 1, 1954.

"Light's and other marine aids to navigation maintained by or under authority of the United States Coast Guard on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts of the United States, including the United States West Indies are listed in six volumes, one for each of the Coast Guard districts and the section at San Juan, P. R. These lists are combined in this volume to form a complete edition for the convenience of mariners operating in more than one Coast Guard district."

Corrected to January 1 of this year! And oh yeah, we nearly overlooked the foot-note. Maps and charts go with it!

FAST TALK in the Great American Home: "Just look at those two dogs, eating out of the same dish!" "Cute isn't it? Let us try it."

667 Soviet Planes Seen In Display

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Air Force staged a giant air show yesterday but the 667 planes that took part included no new types. Even the four-jet intercontinental bomber flown over Red Square on May Day was absent from the display. A quarter of a million Russians, headed by Premier Georgi Malenkov and Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev watched the show at Moscow's Tushino Field. The aircraft ranged from four tiny radio-controlled gliders to 162 two-jet bombers.

Ohio Senators Get Visits From Screwball Folk, Too

WASHINGTON (AP)—People file in and out of a senator's office every day. Usually their purpose is entirely legitimate.

But once in a while—as happened this week in the office of Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio)—a visitor causes some uneasiness.

This particular visitor, now back home in Columbus, Ohio, said he had a plan for world peace and wanted it put before a conference of high government and military officials.

He was so persistent Capitol police removed him and persuaded him to accept mental observation at a Washington hospital. He never did get to Bricker. His wife later told a Bricker aide he now feels "pretty bad" about his performance.

"Some weeks," says Bricker's administrative assistant, John McElroy, "we will have two or three visitors whose behavior is erratic. Then we will go for a couple of weeks without any such visitors."

Frequently they are inventors with some preposterous project—pretty close to perpetual motion. They're convinced there is a conspiracy against them and they want us to help.

"Or there are some with suggestions for bills they want the senator to introduce."

Sen. Thomas A. Burke (D-Ohio) so far has had few visitors of this type, says his administrative assistant Jack Small.

"I remember the first visitor we ever had," Small recalls. "This man was a lieutenant in the Army Reserve."

"He wanted Burke to arrange to have him promoted to brigadier general, so he could retire with that rank."

It is rare that a visitor threatens a senator with violence.

One exception was the time a man fired several shots at Bricker in the subway between the Senate Office Building and the Capitol.

That was in July, 1947. Bricker escaped unharmed on the little shuttle car that carries senators back and forth between the two buildings.

McElroy thinks there should be some sort of procedure that would "protect the people on the Hill" and still make it possible for constituents to visit members of Congress. He says too much red tape is involved disposing of a troublesome person.

Incidentally, the case of the man with the plan for world peace had grown into an alarming rumor by the time the press galleries heard about it. One report was Bricker had been shot by a man at the McCarthy hearing.

Rector To Retire

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Rev. William G. Worman will resign as rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in East Cleveland to join the faculty of Kenyon College.

Churches Meeting In Odd Places

OMAHA (AP)—Omaha churches are holding services in a ballroom, cafe and night club.

Members of Christ the King Catholic parish hold their current services in a ball room.

St. Timothy's Lutheran Church member congregates in a fried chicken establishment on week days.

And the Underwood Presbyterian members meet in what used to be a gambling emporium.

All three congregations are building their own edifices.

An elastic bandage that's truly elastic! ... TENSOR by BAUER & BLACK

Because TENSOR's elasticity depends on LIVE RUBBER THREADS rather than some special fabric weave, TENSOR provides exact pressure control. Doctors recommend TENSOR to relieve muscle sprains, varicose veins, phlebitis and as a chest binder in whooping cough and pleurisy. And TENSOR is the true-elastic bandage that's light-weight, inconspicuous and quick laundering—with non-ravel edges.
